

AMERICAN
IRON & METAL

Driven by purpose. Powered by People.

This year, AIM celebrates an extraordinary milestone, 90 years in metal recycling. For nearly a century, our journey has been defined by resilience, hard work, and an unwavering commitment to transparency.

Founded on the vision and determination of Peter Black, this company was built with grit, resourcefulness, and a belief in long-term relationships. Through changing markets, evolving industries, and global expansion, that same spirit continues to guide us forward.

Reaching 90 years is not simply about longevity, it is about the people who made it possible. It reflects the dedication of our employees, the trust of our partners and industrial clients, and the strength of the communities that have grown alongside us. Together, we have built more than a company, we have built a legacy rooted in reliability, innovation, and shared success. For that, we extend our sincere gratitude.

This anniversary is also a moment of reflection. It reinforces our mission, vision, and core values, commitments shaped by our employees and proudly endorsed across our organization. These principles define how we operate, how we collaborate, and how we continue to raise the standard in our industry.

Thank you for being part of our recycling journey and for helping shape the next 90 years.

OUR COMMUNITY

We actively invest in the communities we are a part of, as we believe success is achieved together.

We take pride in strengthening the communities where our employees, partners, and charitable organizations live and work. Creating opportunities, offering support, and standing alongside them as they grow and succeed.

Our dedication extends to supporting the development of new programs, providing mentorship opportunities, and launching additional fundraising initiatives.

Together, we can make a difference

We actively support local and national not-for-profits across all communities we operate within.

A WORD FROM OUR CUSTOMER

"We were referred to AIM by a mutual colleague who insisted on the integrity of their service. We had little reason to doubt our previous scrap metal partner, but in hindsight little reason to trust. AIM's world class team and infrastructure that was provided in their plan for our business has exceeded all expectations, quickly becoming our most trusted business partner not because they promised, but because they deliver. The only regret we have is not making contact with AIM sooner."
